caterpillar, wrapped up in the cocoon. Soon, when inappropriate, badly designed and inartistic monuments and signed and inartistic monuments and statues have been destroyed or removed, we will blossom forth like the butterfly in all its glory. So say the experts. They have the enthusiastic support of Cabot Ward, park commissioner, who is pushing a campaign for the elimination from the future New York of "art" specimens such as those that have been the terret of criticism. Statues should be target of criticism. Statues should be placed in spots where they will have some connection with their respective districts, if possible, he insists.

Commercial needs have impeded the development of certain districts, he says. Frequently business necessity has curtailed the work of development and sections that were planned for beauty spots have had to be given up to other purposes.

Importance of Parks.

"The parks of a city and its open spaces are very important to the city not only as recreation places, their onler function, whele people may find the refreahment they need and which will make them healthier and better clizens, but they are of tremendous importance as indicating the artistic value a community places on beautiful things and as typifying a city's ideals." says the park commissioner.

OSSINING, N. Y., July 15 .- Daniel Day's little sallie from Sing Sing will cost him just three more years of his life, besides putting him in bad stand-ing with the Mutual Welfare League. He was plucked out of a tree six hundred yards from the prison almost before the siten announcing his escape had ceased shricking.

C'Day was sent to Sing Sing from New York on November 12, 1912, to serve not less than six years nor more than twenty-four years and six months for attempted murder. His wife called upon him at the prison yesterday and informed him that the court of appeals had affirmed his convinction and he would have to serve his minimum sentence. For good behavior he would have been released next as mmer.
